116. 86th NY INF./ PETERSBURG TRENCHES. ALS, 3pp., 8vo., Camp of the 86th Regt. Vols. in trenches near Petersburg, Va. 8/21/64. Soldier (Cotrell) writes friend about "being in a place where we have to keep our heads down to keep from being hit with shotgun shell, has crossed the James River again, "had quite a severe skirmish. Three of our Regt. wer wounded. We came back the night of the 19th. Marched through rain & mud about 20 miles where we are now. We have holes dug in the ground. Poles are then placed over the holes & covered with dirt. Then there is little holes left in the sides. In those miserable places we have to crawl into when the rebs throw over their shells. They shelled very hard today. It is anything but pleasant to be in such a situation where we are liable to be killed at any time." etc. With postally used cover. VF. $285.00

117. 141st N.Y. INF./ GENL. HOOKER/ OPENING THE "CRACKER LINE" AT WAUHATCHIE. ALS, 4pp., 8vo., Camp near Chattanooga, Tenn.

11/15/63. Soldier (Van Wagoner) writes “have been on quarter rations until about a week ago. They call the 11th Corps the Cracker Boys... for we opened the road for rations,” Rebels occupy Lookout Mountain & are well elevated... they have some heavy guns planted on the highest peak of the mountain and about every 10 minutes they send... short or shell screaming into our camps but they do little or no damage... but few of them burst. They are deserting like fun most every day. They come in our lines in droves... there was a whole company officers and all came over. They say they can not stand it much longer... all they have to eat is a little roast corn. They have had quite a little fight since we have been down here. Our regiment lost 10 in killed, wounded and missing, but our company did not have to go into it. They was detailed a provost guard at division headquarters. This is what saved our bean. The Rebs lost between 400 and 500. Our side about half as many. We captured between 3 and 400 prisoners and drove them from their position.”, picket duty, building a corduroy road etc. VF. $295.00

118. 169th N.Y. INF./ LIFE ON FOLLY IS, S.C./ PATRIOTIC THOUGHTS ALS, 6pp., 4to., HQ, Foster's Brigade, Folly Is. 12/29/63. Soldier (French) writes friend that the duties of a private soldier are fatiguing in this dept. “much more so than the 119th (N.Y.) experienced in Virginia. During the long dreary cold nights of October the soldier is forced from his comfortable tent in the quiet camp and compelled to repair to the woods... under arms subject to the heavy dews, drenching rains, and chilling winds, which frequent this portion of the much talked sunny south...” “I am yet encamped on Folly Island, the number of troops on this small island, I am not at liberty to tell, neither am I permitted to communicate anything concerning the operations in this department suffice it to say that we have confidence in our Commanding General, whom is equal to the task now before him”... “...Frank Biggart (who had tented with me since the date of our enlistment) rebuilt our tent and have made it quite comfortable for winter. Just for the novelty of the thing I will attempt its description, the tent is of canvass, water proof, eight feet square, it is so erected upon a basis of yellow pine and palmetto logs, which have been hewn and simply pinned together, by my Friend Frank who by the way has become a proficient in the art of tent building, so that when he returns (if ever) should he chance to be caught in a thunder shower between Sandy Hill and Jim Biggarts, he can throw up a shelter at very little expense and with but little trouble.”... “I trust that same fortune or Federal bayonets will gain for us free access to Charleston City where we might be winter in peace and comfort for at least a few months undisturbed by the thundering roar of artillery, which has so often aroused us from our quiet slumber & threatened the destruction of our camp.” etc. F-VF with postally used cover with (due) 6 h/s (from another letter of this correspondance) $295.00

121. 76th OHIO INF./ATLANTA CAMPAIGN. ALS, 2pp., 4to., on the field near Atlanta, Ga. 8/5/64. Soldier (Humphrey) writes mother about recent battles of Atlanta & Ezra Church. "Since my last to you we have fought no such decisive engagements as those of the 22 & 28 of July. the Rebel Commander in Chief seems convinced after a loss of so many thousand men or the madness of any attempt to drive or defeat the strong well organized army of our wise old W.T. Sherman... We are again executing one of those grand strategic flank movements which has proved so successful... and which has given him the cognomen... the 'great flanker.' It seems to be the opinion among military men that the rebels are trying to get our of here... without coming out and showing us a fair fight which is all Sherman would ask... Their losses... here have been unusually severe and the disparity between ours and theirs is indeed surprising... 5000 to our 500, ten to one... Few age spots o/w VF. $250.00
